The JH-3200 PolyKorg Clone was made by Juergen Haible, the ingenious analog synth guru, who sadly passed away in 2011. Haibles designs and ideas are still alive, though – see http://jhaible.com for some details.

Haible created the JH-3200 in 2002 and 2003. Inspired by Korg's massive polyphonic synthesizers, he designed a unique instrument that features the best out of PS-3100 and PS-3200: 2 VCOs per voice, triple resonators, programmability (64 memories), full polyphony and MIDI are just a few of the wonderful JH-3200 features.

———————————————————————————————————

Open / download:

- Jürgen Haible JH-3200 picture (2700×1800 px)

———————————————————————————————————

Links:

- http://jhaible.com/legacy (the original, old website by J. Haible)
- http://jhaible.com (current products inspired / originally designed by J. Haible)